

From: Milcheva, Stanimira s.milcheva@ucl.ac.uk
Subject: RE: Papers on infrastructure
Date: 23 December 2017 at 09:36
To: Aniket, Kumar k.aniket@ucl.ac.uk

SM

Hi Aniket

Finally got some time to look at the papers. Yeah, the first one in JEL is good to cite as a motivation of why we are doing what we will be doing. The author raises the issue on scarcity of data along other things. Could you check for countries in which we had a change in the system of how infra is handled – from free to fees, from public to private, changes in the bidding processes, etc.

What about countries which use online platforms of public procurement.

Have great holidays!!

Best
Stani

---

From: Aniket, Kumar
Sent: 01 December 2017 14:05
To: Milcheva, Stanimira <s.milcheva@ucl.ac.uk>
Subject: Papers on infrastructure

Hi Stani,

Here at the two papers I have been reading on Infrastructure. They are interesting because they talk about the complication of thinking through exactly how to define infrastructure. These are slightly old and I am looking to see if there is something recent.

Hope you have lovely trip to Germany and see you next week.

Best wishes,
Aniket